

Monroe County High On State Works Project List

By Leonard Randolph

GOVERNOR Leader's Scranton conference on work projects acceleration yesterday produced some solid pieces of good news for Monroe County. Among them:

- 1—The Department of Highways "hopes to have" the Stroudsburg Thruway advertised for bids no later than May.
- 2—Work on the Stroudsburg-East Stroudsburg interborough bridge should begin sometime this Summer.
- 3—The railroad viaduct on Route 90 near Analomink "may be ready for bidding late this month."
- 4—Work on the million-dollar women's dormitory at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College will start on August 15.
- 5—Route 12 between Wind Gap and Saylorsburg is planned and "ready to go" when the rest of the surveying and planning on the route is finished. The section of Route 12 between Saylorsburg and Snyder'sville (also combining Route 209 at this point) is about 60 percent surveyed and 40 percent planned.
- 6—Gov. Leader said he has urged the Department of Forests and Waters to slash the amount of time needed to do detailed plans for the Broadheads-McMichael's flood control project "after local-participation agreements have been secured." The Department has estimated this would take as much as 180 days.

In the conference session devoted to highway construction, East Stroudsburg Burgess Jesse S. Flory asked for information on the Thruway. State Highways Secretary Lewis Stevens referred the question to District Five engineer Ted Rothermund, who, with other area highway officials was with him in the room.

Rothermund told Flory that all planning and preparations for the Thruway are now in final stage.

"We hope to have the Thruway advertised for bids no later than May and possibly in April," he said.

Rothermund was also called on to answer the question concerning the interborough bridge. That query came from Hanford Cleveland, Monroe County assemblyman.

Said Rothermund: "The design for the bridge is completed and has been submitted for thorough study by our design engineer. This was done about six weeks ago."

"The study of the plans is now almost completed. I talked with him two weeks ago and he informs me that there is nothing wrong with the design. The plans may be released sometime around Easter."

"Some work still must be done by the boroughs, and he has been told that this is progressing on schedule. As things now stand, we can see nothing standing in the way of getting work on the bridge underway by Summer."

Cleveland also asked about the status of a second bridge over the Broadheads Creek connecting the two boroughs. It was authorized during the last Assembly session and approved by the Governor.

Rothermund suggested that "we wait until the bridge between the two boroughs is finished and the Thruway is completed and then see how the traffic situation shapes up."

In discussing the Analomink railroad viaduct, highways department officials said that they are now waiting a final report from the Public Utilities Commission.

Rothermund said that the plans for the bridge are "all ready to go and ready to put out for bids. We might be ready to advertise for bids this month if the PUC report comes through."

The original viaduct was destroyed by the 1955 flood as was the interborough bridge. The viaduct carries traffic from the N. Fifth St. section of Stroudsburg to the major Route 90 traffic artery through Analomink and into the upper Poconos.

Questions on the viaduct and the Route 12 project were brought up by Clifford Cramer, East Stroudsburg, acting in behalf of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce at the session. These were also the questions in which the Pocono Mountains Motor Club was interested and which it had delegated John Crandall to ask at the conference.

Stuart Pipher, president of the Central Labor Union of Monroe and Pike Counties, raised the question concerning the women's dormitory at State Teachers College in the conference session on school construction.

Pipher said that it was his understanding that work on the dormitory was not to begin until Fall. The question was answered by Claude Greiner, chief architect for the State Public School Building Authority.

Greiner said that the SPSBA had "pushed the starting date up" on the dormitory project. It is now slated to begin about August 15, he said. Final plans have been received and when they are approved, the project will be ready for bidding, he said.

500 Present At Leader's Conference

MORE THAN 500 persons attended Governor George M. Leader's regional community employment conference in Scranton yesterday.

Throughout the afternoon Leader and other State officials repeatedly emphasized that "we don't have a magic wand to wave over unemployment and make it disappear."

"We're not making any fantastic claims for the program we're outlining," Leader told his press conference after the sessions were over. "What we believe is that the Lord helps those who help themselves and we feel that there are some things we can do to help offset joblessness in our State."

Blueprint

Leader said that the major bulk of recommended action in his works projects blueprint is concentrated on construction—of highways, schools and flood control. "But we feel that employment of this kind will have a snowballing effect. If we have more construction workers employed then we will have more people buying the goods that others must be employed to make. The man who works on a construction job has to have overalls and food supplies. When he is making money, he is able to purchase. And with a rise in purchasing power there will be places for more jobs for more people in all other lines of work," he said.

The Governor said that "there is nothing new about this program in Pennsylvania. We began a special program to encourage new industries two and three years ago. Since then we have financed 41 new plants."

"When we feel faced with a recession, we must try to do our part so that when we go to the Federal government and talk with them we can say—we know what the problem is and we know that it is our responsibility. We have done these things and we need your help. We're not asking you to do it for us, but we do need your cooperation," he said.

He was joined in this statement by Sen. Joseph S. Clark who told the group at the press conference: "We're not looking at this from the standpoint of a program for this month or next month. We're thinking of it as preliminary planning for setting up the groundwork for an overall Federal works program, too—just in case the recession grows worse in the next few months."

Both Leader and Clark said that they feel the present rise in unemployment is "temporary." But both warned that this might not be true.

1,100 Jobless In County

UNEMPLOYMENT in Monroe, Pike, Carbon and Schuylkill counties—all covered by District 10, Bureau of Employment Securities—"rose very sharply during December and January and has continued to increase during February so that the current situation may be accurately described as assuming critical proportions."

These are the words of Frank P. Maguire, District 10 BES manager. They were contained in the report Maguire made yesterday at Governor George Leader's conference in Scranton.

Maguire released figures which showed that an estimated 1,100 persons, at least, were unemployed in Monroe County on Jan. 15. He said the total number of unemployed in the district was 15,500 on that date. Most of those were in hard-hit Schuylkill.

A portion of Maguire's statement said:

"Specifically, there is an extraordinary rise in compensated unemployment. In District 10 alone, last September, we issued 27,570 Unemployment Compensation pay orders. "During January this year, we issued more than double that number—a total of 64,176 or an increase of 133 per cent. The reports for the month of February indicate still further increases.

"These figures do not include the thousands of unemployed persons who are even less fortunate than those drawing unemployment compensation. I refer to those who have exhausted their total benefits and are no longer eligible. Between Sept. 1, 1957 and February 28, 1958 a total of 1,908 persons exhausted their total unemployment insurance entitlement in District 10.

"The outlook is not easy to predict with any degree of assurance. We have substantial reason to believe that the cyclical seasonal unemployment will probably improve during the next two months. There is already evidence of this in certain sectors.

"But, as compared to this outlook, we find that employers are pessimistic in their predictions on future employment levels. They are hesitant, extremely cautious and even dubious in indicating any employment expansion in their respective plants."

'Great Deal' Of Work Completed

SECRETARY of Highways Lewis Stevens yesterday promised a "fulfilled statement on the status of the Keystone Shortway, probably within a fortnight."

Stevens' statement was later backed up by Gov. George M. Leader in the Governor's press conference following the afternoon sessions on unemployment in the Northeast District yesterday.

In response to questions asked during the session on highways Stevens said:

"A great deal of work has already been done on the Shortway so far as location study is concerned. About 58 miles of

Area Flood Control Tops In Importance

GOV. GEORGE Leader yesterday listed flood control for The Stroudsburgs as one of the major projects needed anywhere in Northeast Pennsylvania.

Later in the afternoon during sessions at the Scranton conference, Dr. Maurice K. Goddard, secretary of Forests and Waters, said that news of a citizens committee to insure "that the project will be built" was one of the best pieces of news he had in weeks.

"This afternoon I've been informed that in Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg, a citizens' group is going to work to raise funds to make sure the $2,800,000 isn't lost because of the inability of local governments to raise all the needed local costs," Dr. Goddard said.

"If we accomplished nothing more at this conference than this, it would have been worthwhile for me," he said.

Goddard was referring to the newly formed Citizens Flood Control Council which came into being in Stroudsburg yesterday morning.

At the same time, Dr. Goddard warned that "if we are going to get flood control projects done, we must get started on them just as soon as possible. If they're going to do what they should do for the communities, then they should be in operation before the hurricane season comes in August and September."

Doubt Looms Over Firing On Jet

SEOUL, Korea, March 7 (AP)—A U. S. Air Force pilot raised a question today whether Communist fire actually shot down a companion jet near Red Line.

Lt. Ronald E. Martin of Rock Hill, Mo., said to his knowledge both were within Allied territory and beyond the range of Communist guns.

But the 25-year-old pilot would not tell a news conference whether he meant South Korean troops fired on the F84 Sabre jets by mistake. The South Koreans occupy positions along the demilitarized zone in the area where the jet was shot down.

Fast Hopping

Martin said he did not know definitely where the fire came from. He said things happened so fast in a matter of a few minutes that it was difficult to be sure about a lot of things.

An official Air Force release earlier said Communist ground fire hit the plane. But no protest was made to the Communists pending the outcome of an investigation.

U.S. Plane Crashes Into Pacific With 25 Aboard

NAHA, Okinawa, Saturday, March 8 (AP)—A U. S. Marine Corps transport plane with 25 aboard collided with a Marine jet fighter off Okinawa Friday night. Both planes plunged into the sea.

Three bodies were recovered this morning and a U. S. Navy spokesman said other bodies were sighted. The bodies and wreckage of the two planes were found off Senaga Shima, five miles south of Naha.

Flying Boxcar

Navy spokesmen in Japan earlier said the planes, an R4Q transport and an AD5 attack fighter bomber, were flying from the Philippines to the U. S. Navy Air Station in Naha at the time of the collision. The R4Q is the Marine version of the C119 Boxcar.

The Navy said the planes were returning to Okinawa after taking part in the joint Philippine-U. S. Operation Straggle maneuvers held in the northern Philippines. The planes had left Subic Point for the flight back to Naha.

The collision occurred three miles south of the U. S. Naval Air Station in Naha, officials said.

Okinawan eyewitnesses reported they heard a terrific explosion and saw a ball of fire fall into the sea. One witness said he saw three distinct flashes.

Wagner Feels End Of Strike Near

NEW YORK, March 7 (AP)—Mayor Robert F. Wagner said tonight that he had been assured he could look forward to the end of a 9-state garment strike by early next week.

He launched city hall peace talks in the three-day strike in late afternoon and when they broke up he told a news conference:

"Both sides assured me that they would do everything possible and that I could look forward to a settlement by Monday or Tuesday."

Many Problems

However, both union and industry spokesmen amended the mayor in his presence and said every effort would be made to reach a settlement by Monday or Tuesday.

"There are many problems still to be met," a union official remarked.

An estimated 105,000 dressmakers of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union struck Wednesday in a dispute over wages and contract enforcement provisions of a new contract.

Government May Aid Delaware Dam

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—U. S. Army engineers said today that legislation now awaiting final approval in the House authorizes them for the first time to build water storage dams without guarantees that local units will pay back the costs.

The measure, they said, would make the Federal Government a big paying partner in the long-planned construction of a major dam across the Delaware River at Wallpack Bend or Tocks Island in the Poconos.

For years, Pennsylvania and New Jersey officials have talked of putting a dam across the Delaware to stockpile some of the billions of gallons of water which now run off wasted each year in times of high flow.

Financial Problem

Authorization for such a structure has been passed by the Legislature of both states, but the problem of financing has blocked any real progress.

Repeated studies have brought suggestions that a water storage and multipurpose dam be built in the river either at Wallpack Bend, near Bushkill, Pa., or at Tocks Island, eight miles downstream.

A dam at Wallpack Bend has been figured as costing about $70 million. The Tocks Island site would cost between $80 million and $90 million, but it would have storage capacity of 180 billion gallons—nearly double that at Wallpack Bend.

While all the studies pointed out the need for such a major dam for flood control, salinity control, recreation and possibly hydro-electric power as well as for water storage—they also emphasized the difficulty of getting the money to build one.

The most frequently heard suggestion has been for New Jersey and Pennsylvania to create an authority that would float bonds to get construction money. It would pay off the bonds by charging towns and cities for the water they would buy.

Little real enthusiasm has been found for this proposal, though, on either side of the river.

The Federal Government's entry into the water storage picture, however, would eliminate much of the worry about financing a Delaware River dam.

Green Asks Removal Of Trial Judge

U. S. Congressman William J. Green Jr. yesterday asked that Federal Judge John W. Murphy be removed as trial judge in the fraud at Tobyhanna Signal Corps Depot.

Green, who is Philadelphia Democratic City Chairman, filed a motion in U. S. Middle District Court, alleging that Murphy is "under obligation" for many past favors, including his present seat on the federal bench.

Description

Green, in his motion, affidavit and accompanying exhibits, described Judge Murphy as a former brother congressman, with the same religious faith and national descent.

"I believe that the honorable Judge John Murphy," the affidavit said, "is personally prejudiced against me by reason of our long and close political and social relationship and by reason of his desire to prove his integrity and lack of favoritism will be unable to afford me a fair and impartial trial."

Green is one of a number of people under indictment for conspiracy to commit fraud during construction of the Signal Depot.

Jobless Mark Reaches Peak For 16 Years

WASHINGTON, March 7 (AP)—The government will announce next week that unemployment had risen more than 600,000 in February to a 16-year peak of more than 5,100,000, according to informed officials.

The count has sharpened the administration's concern over the economic outlook and is expected to intensify pressure in Congress for business-boosting measures including tax reduction and public works.

President Eisenhower and his advisers were reported to be still counting on a drop in joblessness in March. Consideration of any major emergency moves should wait, they held, until the March employment figures are issued a month from now.

But, one official said privately, the federal agencies are preparing lists of needed, desirable projects which could be started on short notice if an expected summer pickup fails to materialize.

Much Higher

The February count will show that unemployment is about two million higher than in the same month last year, government sources reported.

An increase in joblessness in February had been expected, but the 600,000 jump caught some officials by surprise. It followed a January rise of 1,100,000, biggest in any month since the depression of the 1930s.

However, the current unemployment total represents a considerably smaller percentage of the working force than in 1941. February's total was between 6 1/2 and 7 per cent of the civilian labor force. That compares with 10 per cent of the considerably smaller labor force in 1941.

By any recent standards, the February figure is exceptional, however. The Labor Department classifies any city having 6 per cent unemployment or more as having substantial joblessness and entitled to preference in the placement of government contracts.

Two Anxious For GOP Nod

HARRISBURG, March 7 (AP)—Republican state-makers today had their pick of two party members who have declared themselves in active quest of the organization's endorsement for nomination as lieutenant governor.

Sen. Rowland B. Mahany, Republican floor leader from Crawford County, and C. Francis Fisher, Allegheny County attorney, have announced their candidacy for the lieutenant governorship on the GOP ticket.

THE SEARCH CONTINUES

Throughout the history of mankind runs the account of a double quest:

Man searching for God . . . our restless eagerness to understand and please our Creator has paralleled the centuries of progress.

God seeking Man . . . ceaselessly, patiently, His Love has lighted the ages, ever reaching toward our hearts, encompassing our souls.

Yet no powerful lens ever devised will aid in this search. Our quest finds its consummation not beneath the lens of a microscope—but beneath the spire of a Church!

What man does not recognize his own inability to cope with the complexities of life?

There awaits you next Sunday in the Church of your choice the peace and assurance that generations have sought . . . the FAITH which unites Man and God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Less Aid, More Trade

In a forthright editorial entitled "Aid: Roadblock to Trade," The Wall Street Journal this week pointed up the fallacy of the Administration pushing much harder for foreign aid than for reciprocal trade.

This in spite of the fact that President Eisenhower has said more than once he regards both aid and trade as "iron imperatives of security."

The Administration has offered a bill to extend the trade act with further tariff-cutting powers. And it is asking for 3.9 billion dollars in military and economic aid for our foreign allies.

Since both measures are in trouble in Congress, the Journal feels the Administration's emphasis on the aid bill will probably be at the expense of the trade bill. The more Congress feels pressured on aid, the less willing it will be to vote for freer trade even though aid and trade are not mutually complementary and equally necessary.

Because of their basic difference, the Journal editorial observes, more trade would greatly diminish the argument for—and the burden of—more aid. That is the simple truth contained in the cliché "trade not aid."

The way it is now, a nation receiving U. S. Government grants has that much less incentive to compete in American or other world markets.

As long as it is getting cash or goods, why make great efforts to boost exports in order to make a living? The longer the aid goes on, the deeper ingrained this perfectly human attitude becomes.

At the same time the aid develops other unwelcome attitudes. It puts the recipients in the position of charity wards, which few people really like. No firm bonds are tied; on the contrary, envy and hostility are directed at the giver. This is not academic theory—it is contemporary history.

As the Journal said, turn the picture around and you get a far more agreeable prospect. If the United States were clearly pursuing a free trade policy to the best of its ability, it would whittle foreign aid because other nations would feel less need of it.

As their exports rose, they would be developing the bases of real wealth, instead of passively accepting the ephemeral stimulant of aid. Their economic interests—the firmest of political ties—would be deeply involved with those of the U. S. And trade provides a weapon Russia cannot match because its economic base is too small.

It is a matter of opinion whether trade is, in the President's phrase, "an iron imperative of security." But, observes the Journal, it is a matter of fact that foreign aid is an iron roadblock in the path of trade.

One License Plate

Five-year license plates are now being mailed to those Pennsylvania motorists who sent in their applications early.

These are aluminum tags which won't have to be replaced until 1963. Tabs of some kind will be issued each year to indicate that the renewal fee has been paid.

The state expects to save $1,363,000 over the five-year period because it won't have to make and mail a new tag to each of four million motorists each year.

All of which is fine, and an obvious improvement. But whatever happened to the pleas of police officers, some of them in formal resolution, for the issuing of two tags to each motorist?

Obviously that would cost something, although not much over a term of five years. And it wouldn't be much as compared with the advantages cited by the police—a better chance to identify a car coming at a roadblock, for one.

George Sokolsky Says...

Personalities Differ

Sometimes the mind of President Eisenhower displays itself best in the off-the-cuff remarks he makes at press conferences, because there he is himself without the intervention of James Hagerty, Arthur Larson, Robert Montgomery and others who seem to be bent on doctoring him into being what he is not and never can be.

The following quotation refers to General James M. Gavin who retired from the military service because he desired to tell the truth without being censored. President Eisenhower said of General Gavin:

"... I mean it was the act of a man of a particular personality—and I have no comment whatsoever. If the man wanted to retire, it was his right, period."

Of course, every human has a particular personality, no two being alike. There are strong men and weak men, tired men and aggressive men—and women, too. What Eisenhower meant probably was that General Gavin has a personality that is displeasing to Eisenhower because it is sharp; it is strong and aggressive; it is self-reliant. The President prefers a conforming personality, one that salutes his superiors and expects to be saluted by his inferiors. In a word, a personality that knows its place and keeps it.

Europe Lacks Statesmen While that is an orderly procedure in a military organization, in civil life it represents tired, unimaginative people who, having discovered what pays off, avoid what does not pay off. In the struggle for power in the world today, it is significant that all of Europe with the exception of West Germany appears to be fatigued intellectually, no statesmen, except the aged Konrad Adenauer, exhibiting both courage and imagination.

The Russians, who are building a world state, are, as one might say, full of paprika and that is equally true of such people as the Arabs and the Israelis. But both Europe and the United States are tired and the evidence of fatigue here is the unwillingness of men to engage in controversy, to fight hard for what they believe to be right.

I am sure that Harold Stassen is all wrong about Soviet Russia, but at least he says his say and fights for a forum to say it. What he says seems to me to be immature, idealized nonsense, the product of a careless appraisal of historic forces, but believing as he apparently does that peace is worth any price, he rejects being silenced.

Were it not for an equally aggressive mind, John Foster Dulles, this country would probably have made more errors in foreign policy than it has, for Dulles has had to combat not only the White House crowd but also big business whose patriotism is to be measured by the state of the market and whose judgment is controlled by committees including public relations counsel and lawyers who fear losing retainers and therefore favor avoiding controversies which may lead to unpopularity.

The difference between Harold Stassen and John Foster Dulles is similar to the difference between Walter Reuther and George Meany. Reuther, seeking power for himself, has the impudence to shout his opinions from the housetops, no matter how foolish and how other men may ridicule him; Meany regarding himself as a labor statesman and seeking to preserve the A.F.L.-C.I.O. marriage at any cost, retreats steadily before Reuther's impudence.

So John Foster Dulles compromises with the White House insipidities, whether they come from Sherman Adams, Harold Stassen, now retired, Arthur Larson or even the President because he will not resign and risk a further collapse of this Republican Administration.

In a tired world, victories often go to the most impudent. It took Stalin a decade or more to reduce the Russian Communist Party to his will and the Russian people to his dictatorship. Khrushchev did it in a few months, with humor and laughter, merrily sending such an historic figure as Molotov to Mongolia to be an ambassador to nomads and Kaganovich to Alma Ata.

Khrushchev does not need to kill his opponents as Stalin did because he laughs at them, just as he laughs at all the world when he hands the world an agenda and tells such a country as the United States what may or may not be discussed at a summit conference which he needs for propaganda and the United States needs like a hole in Uncle Sam's head.

Post Office

Good Evening Ladies!

Make It Easier To Meet

It is a crying shame, cries a Los Angeles lady, that even in these days of feminine emancipation it still is considered wrong for a nice woman to make a pick-up acquaintance with a man.

Who knows, she asks, how many happy marriages are frustrated by this antiquated prohibition? Why can't a man, for example, tip his hat to a strange lady on the street and say:

"Pardon me, miss, but my name is George Himmelhochsheimer, and I like the cut of your jib. What say we drop into a plush pub, run this thing up the flagpole and see if the bands play?" Then, she continues, the day might say, "That whams the gong with me—let's." So, dragging their metaphors after them, they do.

As things stand in our society, she says, the lady may be perfectly willing, but she is honor bound to call a cop. On the other hand, if Mr. Himmelhochsheimer is accompanied by a mutual friend, and this friend says, "Miss Smaltz, meet Mr. Himmelhochsheimer," the whole thing has conventional blessing, even though the mutual friend may be a bum—and Mr. Himmelhochsheimer, too.

I'm all for making it easier for boys to meet girls, but I still think we need more rules, the male being what he is. It is logical to assume that the intentions of most males are not entirely honorable and do not become so until they fall in love. It is difficult for a harmless flirtation leaves off and jailable disorderly conduct and molestation of females, to use the cop's terms, begins. So, I counsel caution.

I still think the Newark policemen have the right idea. Give a man one whistle (or its equivalent) at any one girl and have it understood that it is the girl's prerogative to respond or not, as she sees fit, accepting the first whistle as a compliment but using her own judgment regarding any subsequent ones.

One Note Permitted I rather like the conclusions reached a while ago by the police board of Newark, N. J., to the effect that if a man whistles once at a girl it is by no means an excuse to throw the book at him. However, if a girl indicates she isn't interested, and he persists, it is time to call the wagon.

This is a small step toward catching up with the French who, after decades of pioneering, are well in the van in matters pertaining to sex. The accosted French girl, I understand, is flattered rather than indignant. However, her "no soap" means just that, and the French have jails, too. This appeals to me as a civilized arrangement. I'm sure you could meet some nice people that way.

Over here, a man and woman can see one another every day for weeks, each nursing a yen to know the other, but the man has no idea she would react to the direct approach. If he reacted too eagerly, he'd be suspicious of her. Even an indirect approach is dangerous because she might yell for the gen-arms—or even turn out to be a policeman in disguise and on masher duty. The result is deplorable.

On the other hand, the women can't take the initiative because conventions are against her and would put an ugly tag on her. This almost always brings to life the male's dishonorable intentions, even though latent.

I still think the Newark policemen have the right idea. Give a man one whistle (or its equivalent) at any one girl and have it understood that it is the girl's prerogative to respond or not, as she sees fit, accepting the first whistle as a compliment but using her own judgment regarding any subsequent ones.

Book Review

Life Plus 99 Years By Leopold

By William L. Smyser, Professor of Social Science, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College.

Life Plus 99 Years, by Nathan F. Leopold, Doubleday, New York, 1958, $5.50.

You might call this a success story. In one way it is the tale of how one criminal, perhaps the most notorious of this century, talked and worked and wormed his way out of prison. But on the other hand and in a higher sense, it is the best version available of how society reforms one of the worst of its misfits.

The hero of Life Plus 99 Years is not Nathan F. Leopold, who helped commit the Franks murder, and well deserved the long sentence, the intended unbeatable permanent imprisonment, which was given him.

The hero is the modern penal system. This book tells how it works. The narrator is the human guinea pig himself. And he is rehabilitated and free.

He Is Cured It is not as dangerous to release a particularly nasty murderer, even after 33 1/2 years in jail, as it is for an asylum to release one of the criminally insane? Who can be sure that in either case the man is really cured? How can we know?

It is interesting that many of the chapters of this book, previously printed and serialized all over this country, have to some extent reassured public opinion and even contributed to the split decision of the parole board which finally—after many attempts and rejections—agreed to let Nathan Leopold out of prison.

He has not been brainwashed, but the change in his personality, as one sees it come to pass in these pages, is no less dramatic. Starting with the conceited, nasty, megalomaniac, who not only felt above the law but imagined he could cheat justice, the book shows his transformation.

He meets "the Hole," or solitary confinement; he studies languages, teaches and talks with a chaplain. In the end he gets out, and he is ready to serve society—not make it serve him!

Only Pennsylvanians are eligible to rent the cabins during a period from June 1 through Sept. 30.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Reds' Travel Agent

Washington, March 7.—Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov is expanding his operations.

In addition to his usual glad-handing and fraternizing in the U. S., the Soviet envoy is now offering to act as a sort of glorified travel agent for VIPs planning to visit his homeland.

That was the unexpected experience of Adlai Stevenson.

To his surprise, Menshikov volunteered to arrange a meeting with none other than Communist boss Nikita Khrushchev when Stevenson goes to Russia in the Summer, probably in July.

"I am quite sure this can be managed," said Menshikov, "if you will let me know sufficiently in advance when you will be in Moscow."

This invitation was cordially accepted by the 1952-56 Democratic presidential candidate. Then he asked about travel limitations in the Soviet. Menshikov smilingly brushed that aside.

"You will be able to go anywhere you wish," he said. "There will be no difficulties about that. I give you my assurance, you will be welcome everywhere."

Most singular aspect of this discussion is that it was at the initiative of the Russian Ambassador. While Stevenson was in Washington, Menshikov got in touch with him. Explaining he had read that Stevenson plans a Soviet trip, Menshikov offered to set up a meeting with Khrushchev.

Later, Stevenson related this to friends on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. They heartily approved of his talking with Khrushchev and other Soviet leaders, and inquired about the subjects he proposes taking up.

"I will have to give that careful thought," said Stevenson. "One important matter that comes immediately to mind is a possible joint effort by the U. S. and Russia to provide economic aid for the undeveloped areas of the world. Seems to me that such a com-

Stroudsburg, Pa. Editor, Daily Record,

Dear Sir:

Not being a native of this county but having resided here for the past number of years I can't let "Disgusted's" letter go unanswered.

In regard to unemployment checks, the first week you sign up and get nothing for that week. However, each week thereafter that you sign you receive a check although it may mean a wait of two weeks. It is good enough collateral to purchase the necessities of life. Which brings me to the real point in issue.

In this county there isn't a businessman I know of that would refuse you credit, providing you haven't abused the privilege in the past. Again I speak from experience when I first moved to this fine community I believe I had as rough a road to hoe as "Disgusted."

A great injustice is done to the smear on charitable organizations. The veterans organizations in this county have paid out many thousands of dollars and have never embarrassed anyone by publicizing their contributions. Did you ever support these fine groups when you were working?

There are also people in the county receiving public assistance and I know that this sum exceeds $5 per week. We also have a Red Cross Chapter; have you ever tapped this excellent source for temporary relief?

There are jobs at the employment office. NOW. Where were you when the DL&W R. R. was paying men $1.92 an hour to shovel snow. They worked 10 hours a day for five days; that makes it almost $100 for a week's work. Other people would have paid, and gladly did pay, almost any sum to get shovelled out.

The fine people and industry of this county would never tolerate any person going through your so-called "mental agony" of your children going hungry. This is a progressive and enlightened community not some country under the iron fist of communism.

Finally, if what your "Old Timer" friend says is true, then why is the population of the county on the increase? It would seem that people would be moving out instead of into a community as unproductive and heartless as you describe it.

I've lived in this congenial community for over 10 years and have had many jobs. I was never out of work too long but when I needed a helping hand I got it. Sometimes it required the better part of a year to pay back credit I received, but no matter how small and how slow the payments there never was a question of credit.

If you think this is a terrible community try living in some of the big cities like I have. People there don't know of your existence and care less. Read The Daily Record "Want Ads."

THOROUGHLY DISGUSTED. (Editor's Note: The Daily Record is in receipt of another communication—this one unsigned by the sender—answering "Disgusted's" recent letter published in this column. If the sender will make his or her identity known to the editor, the communication will be published.)

Republicans Feud—That long-seething vendetta between the two top Republican leaders of the House is causing mutual friends alarmed concern.

They are increasingly fearful of an open rupture between Representatives Joseph Martin, Mass., party Floor Leader and former Speaker, and Charles Halleck, Ind., the GOP Whip.

Resentment between the two House veterans has become so hot that they are no longer making any secret of it.

Martin and Halleck have been at loggerheads since 1955, when the Democrats regained control of the House. Partisans of Halleck urged him to challenge Martin's re-election as Floor Leader, which he claimed on seniority grounds after giving up the Speakership. But while there was considerable talk of such a fight, nothing came of it.

However, that didn't improve relations between Martin and Halleck. In fact, it worsened them. And they have become steadily more strained ever since.

Primary reason enmity between Martin and Halleck has become so explosive this session is the directly contrary advice they have been giving President Eisenhower.

Martin has been pooh-poohing disaffection among GOP lawmakers over Agriculture Secretary Benson, the $4 billion foreign aid budget, renewal of the Reciprocal Trade Act, and demands for drastic measures to combat the business slump. Martin has been telling the President these rumblings "are more bark than bite."

Halleck flatly disagrees with this rosy view.

The Indian has been warning the President, and his White House lieutenants that failure to heed these rank-and-file complaints may cost the party dear in the fall elections.

To these dire admonitions, Martin has scoffingly replied that Halleck has no real influence in the House, and can be of little help to the President there.

Inevitably, that has fanned the flames between the two Republican chiefs.

Graphically illustrative of that was Halleck's outburst at Martin during a conversation with a group of GOP lawmakers. They were discussing their unavailing effort to secure Martin's help for defense contracts for their recession-hit districts.

"Joe not only turned us down," said one East Coast representative, "but he told us to quit worrying and to have faith that there will be a business upturn in a few months. I tried to tell him that even a few months might be too late politically for some of us. But he brushed me off."

"I am not surprised," said Halleck caustically. "Joe is doing a lot of brushing off these days. I'm having quite a bit of trouble with him on that score, myself. He's been telling the President that everything is rosy up here, and that there is nothing really to the constant complaining about Benson and the economic situation."

"I've been telling the President exactly the opposite. I've been warning him that if he doesn't act on these matters, both he and the party will rue it. So Joe tells them that I don't know what I'm talking about, and that I have little support in the House. My reply to that is that one of these days there will be showdown, and they will see who follows whom around here."

Note: One of Halleck's proudest possessions is a portrait painted by the President.

Citizens Flood Control Council Formed

Sanborn Meets With PP&L Officials

A CITIZENS Flood Control Council was formed yesterday morning in Stroudsburg.

H. G. Sanborn Jr., was named chairman of the new group. Purpose of the organization is to collect funds on a voluntary basis which will prevent loss of the $2,800,000 flood project on the Broadheads and McMichaels Creek due to inability of Stroudsburg borough to raise sufficient funds to pay its allocated share of costs. The two other present members of the Council are J. L. Kerlin, Stroudsburg and Clifford Cramer, East Stroudsburg.

Less than four hours after the Council was formed, Sanborn held a conference with "senior officials" of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Co. Cost of relocating PP&L lines for the project is one of the major cost-issues in the local program.

Sanborn said that PP&L officials called him and set up an appointment with him yesterday morning. The Council was formed at a 9 a. m. meeting between Sanborn, Kerlin and Cramer and Jesse S. Flory, East Stroudsburg burgess; Ed Doran, Stroudsburg burgess; John R. Lesoine, Monroe County Commission chairman and Ed Hess, county and boroughs engineer. The four officials presented a summary of costs and needs for funds requested by the Council.

Sanborn termed the PP&L officers "most cooperative." He said: "There is no doubt in my mind whatever that they (PP&L) do want to make certain that Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg have flood control. They are completely behind the project."

"I met with them at 2 p. m. We did nothing but talk about flood control for the next two hours. We discussed the whole problem, including their position and the positions of both boroughs."

"They were very candid about it. They offered to let members of our council look over their books and their records and study any part of their position. They want to cooperate with us."

The chairman said that he will meet again today with Hess to go over details of the flood control plan for The Stroudsburgs.

Candidates Speak At GOP Meeting

SAVYORSBURG — The two announced candidates for chairman of the Monroe County Republican Committee spoke on behalf of their candidacies last night at the monthly meeting of the West End GOP Club at the Lake House.

In his appeal for the support of club members at the May 20 election, Gerald A. Snyder said his record of service as Republican state committeeman had given him the experience needed for the office of county chairman.

If elected, he said, he pledged he would surround himself with people of experience and accept their guidance and assistance, and would bring about close communication with the party workers.

Pattern

He said he would pattern his own setup after that of Donald C. Mack, GOP chairman in Northampton County, which he said had been highly successful.

Snyder predicted that, because of his youth (he is 33), he possesses the vigor necessary to lead the party to victory in coming elections. Mack, incidentally, is just one year older than Snyder, the speaker observed.

B. K. Williams, incumbent chairman who is seeking reelection, spoke on his 12-year tenure as head of the county Republican organization. He said he felt the party had made many gains under his leadership and, with continued support, could make even further strides.

H. Glenn Sanborn Jr., public relations man for Snyder, emphasized the young candidate's training, education and desire to serve in public office as a career. He spoke of Snyder's youth as an asset because "he is young in spirit, young in heart, and young and flexible enough to change with the times."

Graden Praetorius, candidate for state committee, promised to properly represent the county and the party at the state level if elected.

The Northampton chairman, Mack, outlined the organization's setup and told how the committee represents all segments of the population. His assistant, James Hemstreet, spoke on behalf of the McGonigle-Scott state ticket and predicted it would win in November because the outstanding caliber of the two candidates.

Morgan Butz presided at the meeting.

Portland Signs Jointure Papers

PORTLAND—Slate Belt school officials were informed last night that the Portland School District has signed papers indicating its willingness to enter a jointure with five other districts in the Slate Belt area.

"This information came as a surprise and marked another break in the 10-year controversy over uniting upper Northampton County schools districts into a solid jointure."

Red Cross Fund Reaches $5,142.11

THE MONROE County 1958 fund campaign, which will be one week old today, has total receipts of $5,142.11. The report was made yesterday at the first meeting of the volunteer captains and workers at the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Harold Ingraham, fund campaign chairman, reported that much of that was from special gifts.

However, seven workers in the house to house canvass have already brought in returns, he said.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Sometimes I like you much better than I do at other times—and it very seldom has anything to do with what you do or don't do. Yesterday's upsurge of affection was probably a reaction against wanting to be anywhere else but here.

Anyway, without rhyme or reason I suddenly felt thankful that my lines had been cast in such pleasant places. At least there wasn't any big single thing that made me glad, nothing that you could put your finger on.

It may have been that I washed the windows and could see the blue jay outside blending into the blue sky. It may have been the satisfaction I got from knowing the man at the gas station, the clerk at the counter, the woman ahead of me in the check-out line, and meeting, quite by chance, pleasant companions for an early dinner hour.

I liked knowing who was waiting for whom for dinner, how many children they had, what clubs they belonged to, and what they were probably doing over the weekend.

Many times we have been accused of being smug—of being so satisfied with our lot that we don't go out of our way to make new friends, understand new ideas, or try a new way of doing things.

And many times we are just that. It takes no special virtue to know everybody in town. All you have to do is live here long enough. It may be smug and it may be small, but it's mighty pleasant, once in a while anyway, to take satisfaction in the familiar and the fond.

City Suckers Often Fail Trying Country Projects

By Anne Heywood

At one time, the prototype of the sucker was the country bumpkin who permitted a city slicker to sell him the Brooklyn Bridge.

But now the situation is reversed. The biggest suckers are the city slickers who, expecting to make a handsome living from the land, sink their capital into country property and end up bankrupt.

Recently, I received a letter from a couple who did just that. They were city people who had spent vacations in many different parts of the country.

Pulled Up Stakes

When it came time for retirement, they pulled up their roots in the city and, arbitrarily selecting a country place they had visited only once, bought 10 acres and small cottage. They were quite sure they could make a living from their property.

They opened a roadside stand but, from the beginning, it was destined to fail.

The reasons for its failure are so common that perhaps it would help if I list them:

1. First of all, these people made a mistake in trying to go into business in a country community where they were unknown.

Make Friends Slowly

Country people are slow to make friends and even slower to give their trust. If they don't know you, the chances are they won't have any confidence in doing business with you.

2. The second mistake was in assuming that city people can quickly and easily adapt to country living. Much of their capital went to unnecessary expenditures for minor repairs which country people automatically would have handled themselves.

3. The third mistake was that they failed to recognize a roadside stand as a business in which, like any other, experience is necessary.

Legion Aux. To Serve Series Of Banquets

The members of the American Legion Aux. will be cooking and serving banquets this Spring. At the meeting on Thursday night, they accepted three requests. One will be served tonight, one is scheduled for March 28, and the tentative date of June 21 was the third.

Mrs. Florence B. Engel was accepted as a new member, bringing the total membership to 275. A report was made of the Junior Aux. meeting on March 1 when they made St. Patrick's Day nut cups for the Coatesville Veteran's Hospital.

The Auxiliary voted to give $5 to the heart fund and $2 to the National President's luncheon.

once is necessary.

Before you can successfully run a roadside stand, you have to be sure you have selected the proper location, on the right kind of road, and that the products you offer are the kind which that market needs. This can only be learned by a combination of experience and intensive study.

Make Plans Now

If you are planning some day to "make a living in the country" do bear these points in mind. More than that, you should begin planning for it immediately.

Spend your summer vacations really looking over different communities, with an eye toward where you will eventually settle. Then, for several years, visit the same place, see if you like the people and speak their language. After a little investigation you may find that you don't want to live in the country permanently after all.

If you would like further pointers on operating a roadside stand, send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope, care of this newspaper, and I will send you my pamphlet on the subject.

TOUGH TEEN-AGERS

A UNIQUE Canadian Army Cadet corps claims the distinction of being the first such group of teen-agers to undergo survival tests in the Arctic, including building their own igloos and sleeping out in tents on the frozen tundra. They're members of the Duke of Edinburgh school, sons of Army, Navy, Air Force and civilians stationed at Fort Churchill, in Manitoba. The cadets wanted to "follow their dad's footsteps" and they did. They attended lectures and were issued Arctic equipment. Their three-day outing consisted of a snowshoe march across the tundra. They set up their tent camp and cooked their rations in pressure cookers. On the second day they built snow caves and learned survival techniques. On the third day, they marched home. Arctic instructors went along.

With packs on their backs, they travel by snowshoe. That's a tractor in back.

After clearing a path in snow, they pitch in to put up their sleeping quarters.

Supplies had to be lashed down. A few intrepid souls even took snow baths.

Monroe Stars Top Pocono Twp., 58-53

Loop's 'Cream' Overcomes 10-Point Deficit

SNAPPING back with a driving second half rally, the Monroe Scholastic League All-Stars handed league champions Pocono Twp. High a 58-53 setback before a standing room only crowd in East Stroudsburg High's gymnasium last night.

Down 10-points at the half-time (34-24), the Bill Frear-tutored Stars caught Pocono Twp. at the start of the fourth period and then fought down to the wire before a mixed 1,000 cheering fans before hanging up the win.

Pocono, coached by Harry Werkheiser, had trouble at the beginning and the Stars took four-point edges before finally settling for a 13-12 edge at the end of the opening stanza.

However, in the second quarter Pocono really got moving on all cylinders as Paul Frailey put on a one man push shot show to lead his mates into a 34-24 lead.

The All-Stars, guided by Frank Altomose (Tobyhanna) one-handers kept pecking away at the spread and moved to within one, 42-41 as the third period ended.

Pocono Ahead
Altomose's steal of a misfired pass and eventual bucket shot the All-Stars ahead. But Larry Starner came back with two fouls to give Pocono a 44-43 advantage.

This was the last time Pocono saw the lead, although the Tannersville five tied it up at 53-41 with 1:45 remaining. Three fouls by Dave Bixler (Barrett), and one each by Charles Harrison (Barrett) and Altomose put the game on ice for the All-Stars.

Frailey High
Frailey took game honors with 20 markers, including his dozen in the second period. Larry Starner, with 12, and Ron Martinell, with 10, also hit in the double figures for Pocono.

Altomose paced the All-Stars with 16, followed by Dick Serfass (Chestnut Hill) with 13 and Harrison with nine.

In the preliminary, Pocono Twp's junior varsity captured the Monroe Loop's Junior Varsity title by defeating Coolbaugh, 40-31.

Alan Strand was high for the new champs with 17. Tomkey led Coolbaugh's jayvees with 15.

PERSPIRATION DROPS
Chestnut Hill's cheerleaders performed for the All-Stars, while Pocono Twp's girls did likewise for the league champions.

League president Joe Murray announced that it was the largest crowd ever to witness the annual game between the league kings and an all-star team. After all expenses were paid the league treasury was enriched by $256.

Frear, Chestnut Hill High's coach during the season, used all 10 players. However, the Hillers' mentor decided to go along with his high players—Harrison, Bixler, Altomose, Earl Everett (Chestnut Hill), and Serfass in the second half.

It paid off in the long run as Harrison and Serfass worked the boards advantageously for payoff fast break points by the All-Stars.

Citrus Season Officially Opens

WIDESPREAD WINTER freezes may have made it a bad year for grapefruit but the Grapefruit League goes on forever. Major league baseball teams, in training in Florida and Arizona, begin flexing their spring muscles Saturday in a full schedule of exhibition games.

In some places there will be a "new look."

The onetime New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers will be wearing different uniforms. And four teams will have managers at the helm who weren't on the same job a year ago.

The Dodgers, now representing Los Angeles, meet the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game at Miami, the first in a 2-game series before going against their old National League rivals, Milwaukee, Monday.

Face Tribe
The Giants, new heroes of the populace in San Francisco, take on Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

Cleveland is one of the teams which has figured in a managerial shift since the start of the 1957 campaign. Brash Bobby Bragan, who was fired as skipper of Pittsburgh last August, will be barking orders for the Indians.

Bragan's place as manager of the Pirates was taken over by Danny Murtagh, who gets a full shot at the job this year. Washington starts with a skipper who was just a coach this time a year ago, Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto, Kansas City has a new head man in Harry Craft.

Lavagetto succeeded fiery Charley Dressen at the Washington helm last May 7. Craft became the Kansas City manager last Aug. 6, replacing Lou Boudreau.

World champion Milwaukee, heavily favored to repeat as National League winner, opens its spring season against ambitious Detroit at Lakeland, Fla. The American League champion New York Yankees face St. Louis at St. Petersburg.

First 'Cash' Duel
The first clash of the American League's two high-priced powerhouses, Ted Williams of Boston and Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, will take place Monday when the two teams meet at St. Petersburg.

Saturday's exhibition schedule: Chicago (N) vs. Baltimore at Scottsdale, Ariz.

Cincinnati vs. Chicago (A) at Tampa, Fla.

Los Angeles vs. Philadelphia at Miami (night).

Milwaukee vs. Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.

Pittsburgh vs. Boston at Sarasota, Fla.

St. Louis vs. New York at St. Petersburg, Fla.

San Francisco vs. Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

Washington vs. Kansas City at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Reserve Elected Lehigh Captain
BETHLEHEM, Pa. — Denis V. Brennan, 5-11 junior from Freehold, has been elected captain of the 1958-59 Lehigh University basketball squad.

A reserve performer this winter, Brennan scored 98 points in 17 games and had an excellent foot shooting mark, converting 24 of 28 attempts.

He succeeds co-captains Bob Roepke, Passaic, N. J., and Tom Healy, Saratoga Springs, N. Y., both seniors.

Best Selling Platter
NEW YORK — In naming best horses of 1957 in various classes, The Blood Horse magazine has come up with "the best $2,000 selling platter of 1957." Appease Not, an 11-year-old gelding by King Cole—Naadja, gained that honor. In 1957 he started 41 times for a 10-year total of 253 races. He won 38, was second 39 times and third 39 times to earn a total of $113,690.

Byrne Quits Diamond For Oil Position

ST. PETERSBURG, March 7 —Tommy Byrne, 38-year-old left-handed pitcher of the New York Yankees, retired from baseball today.

Byrne, who lives in Wake Forest, N.C., has joined the staff of an oil company in Sanford, N.C.

The veteran southpaw, who is vacationing here with his wife, was the last Yankee player still with the club who played during the World War II era. Tommy came up with the Bombers in 1943, served two years as a naval officer, and then resumed his baseball career after the war. He was traded away in 1951 and hurled for the St. Louis Browns, Chicago White Sox and Washington before dropping back to the minors in 1953.

PCL Comeback
He made a comeback in the Pacific Coast League, winning 20 games for Seattle in 1954, and was purchased by the Yanks in September of that year. He won honor as baseball's "comeback man of the year" in 1955 when he helped the Yankees to the American League pennant with 16 victories.

Byrne's lifetime record for 13 major league seasons was 85-69, with a 4.11 ERA.

Wydo Retires From Football For Politics

By GEORGE ESPER
UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 7 —Frank Wydo, a tackle who retired from the Philadelphia Eagles football club at the end of last season, says his future is "strictly in politics."

Wydo, 33, a native of nearby Hibbs, was elected German Twp. tax collector last November on the Democratic ticket. He also owns a tavern in Footedale, a few miles from Hibbs.

A Cornell University alumnus with a bachelor of arts degree in political science, Wydo played with the Pittsburgh Steelers from 1947 through 1951, when he was traded to the Eagles.

One reason why the 6-4, 230-pounder retired was that "I'd like to eventually move up in politics."

Family Other Reason
Another reason was his wife and three children, Bernard, 7, Christine, 5, and Frank Jr., 2½.

"I thought I had enough after 11 years," Wydo explained. "I wanted to get out in one piece. My children are a little older and I wanted to spend more time with them."

Wydo said he became interested in politics during his undergraduate days at Cornell.

Heads Southeast Court Nominees
By The Associated Press
BIG Bailey Howell, Mississippi State's one-man offense, heads the 1957-58 all-Southeastern Conference basketball team announced today by The Associated Press.

Howell's teammates on the all SEC quintet are Jack Kubiszyn of Alabama, Gene Tormohlen of Tennessee, Rex Frederick of Auburn and Joe Hobbs of Florida. Kubiszyn is from Buffalo, N.Y.

Coaching Changes
MADISON, Wis., March 7 —Fred Jacoby, Madison West High School football coach, was named freshman coach at the University of Wisconsin today and Frosh Coach Derald Tietak was moved to the varsity staff to replace Bob Odell, 36, who resigned to become head football coach at Bucknell University. He was an assistant here for nine years.

TAKE YOUR PICK—Bob Lillis, aspirant for the shortstop post with the Dodgers, has a lot more gloves here than he has hands. However, observers at the Los Angeles club's Vero Beach, Fla., training camp say Bob has a fine, steady pair of hands.

More Conditioning
SARASOTA, Fla., March 7 —Pitching Coach Dave Ferriss today took his staff to the outfield for plenty of extra running—all except the three who'll go in the opening game of the Grapefruit League—at the conclusion of the regular Boston workout.

Excused were Bob Porterfield, George Susce and Leo Kieley, who'll go three innings each tomorrow against Pittsburgh, and also Tom Brewer who was back in uniform after shedding the after-effects of a case of mumps.

Score In Limelight
TUCSON, Ariz., March 7 —Cleveland Pitcher Herb Score will be the center of attention tomorrow when he takes the mound against San Francisco's Giants in the first exhibition game of the season.

The Tribe's ace lefthander will pitch to opposing major league batters for the first time since a line drive struck him in the eye last May. The brilliant southpaw appeared in good form in an intrasquad game earlier this week.

Bosox Hurlers On The Run

Murtaugh Nominates Law To Hurl Buccos Inaugural

FORT MYERS, Fla., March 7 —Pittsburgh Manager Danny Murtagh today nominated righthander Vernon Law to start tomorrow's opening exhibition game against Boston at Sarasota.

Murtagh said he would work his pitchers for 3 inning stints, and righthander Roy Face and southpaw Robert G. Smith will follow Law.

The Pirate manager said his team is fairly well set except for pitching and he doesn't plan much experimenting at other positions during the 34-game exhibition schedule.

Gold Medal Pairings Are Announced
PAIRINGS for the Junior-Senior Gold Medal Basketball Tournament at the Stroudsburg YMCA were announced last night by "Y" officials.

The tournament, which opens Monday will have seven teams in the senior division and six in the junior.

Play actually gets under way first in the junior division, when American Hour at 7 p. m. Monday. In the second game at 8 p. m., Slate Belt Bowling Center takes on Steve's Coffee Shoppe.

Drow Byes
Ike's Variety Shoppe and Monroe County Co-op Dairy drew opening byes in the junior competition.

Wednesday the senior division opens up activity with Gray's Chevrolet facing Laurel Diner at 6:30 p. m.; Twin City TV meeting Tobyhanna Signal Depot at 7:45 p. m.; and Jack's Market taking on Red Top Tavern at 9 p. m.

Juniors Thursday
Thursday, Monroe Co-op meets the winner of the American House-WVPO game at 7 p. m., and Ike's Variety Shoppe comes up against the victor of the Slate Belt Bowling-Steve's Coffee duel at 8 p. m. Both are junior tilts.

The tournament will continue March 17, 19 and 20.

Unsettled Spots
ST. PETERSBURG, March 7 —Manager Casey Stengel today designated leftfield, shortstop and first base as unsettled as he reloaded his New York Yankees for their 10th spring exhibition schedule under his command.

Rookies Norm Siebern and Deon Johnson were named to battle it out for the outfield berth, a position which was manned by six different players in 1957.

Stengel said rookie Fritz Brickell, son of the oldtime Pittsburgh outfielder would be given a chance at shortstop and that Marv Throneberry, husky slugger from Denver, would have an opportunity to take over at first base.

If the latter makes the grade, Bill Skowron would shift to third base, where he has been working out.

Routine Workout
VERO BEACH, Fla., March 7 —A routine workout was the program for the Los Angeles Dodgers today in preparation for their opening spring exhibition game with Philadelphia at Miami tomorrow night.

Manager Walter Alton said they would start Felipe Montemayer in centerfield in place of Gino Cimoli, who suffered a slightly pulled hamstring in his left leg.

5 Rooks In Lineup
PHOENIX, Ariz., March 7 —San Francisco Giants' Manager Bill Rigney today named a team including five rookies to face Cleveland tomorrow at Tucson.

Former Minnesota All America football star Paul Giel will work up to three innings.

Giel signed a $60,000 deal with the Giants in 1954 and saw duty as a relief hurler the following season. Now he returns after two years in the Army. Following him on the mound will be bonus southpaw Mike McCormick and veteran Tom Poholsky.

Campy Shows Improvement
GLEN COVE, N.Y., March 7 —Roy Campanella's paralysis is slowly disappearing and he is showing general improvement, the hospital said today.

The veteran Los Angeles Dodger catcher, who suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident Jan. 28, is so improved he may be allowed to have visitors shortly. He still remains paralyzed from the waist down.

Traction Removed
The traction has been removed from Campanella's head, the hospital added, and physiotherapy has been started, assuring exercise to his arms and legs.

STC Five Winds Up Season Home

CURRENT DARLINGS of the area court world, East Stroudsburg Teachers boys varsity bid adieu to the 1957-58 season today when Dick Luce's proteges tackle Lock Haven STC in a Teachers Basketball Conference duel in the Warriors gymnasium.

The Warriors will be seeking their 12th victory and their best season in four years. ESSTC has lost seven times during the campaign, including five setbacks in the Teachers loop.

In STC competition, Luce's charges have come out on top in a quartet of games.

Headed by Hal Lord, Ralph Gooding and "Pappy" Terrette, the Bald Eagles will be sporting a 12-10 mark when the tipoff comes at 8:30 p. m. Lock Haven owns a victory over ESSTC in a game played early in the year on the winners floor.

Probable Starters
East Stroudsburg will start the same team which has racked up three straight victories. At center will be Charley German, the fourth leading scorer in the league, while Karl Weigner and John Krysa will operate at the forward slots. Steve Oliveri and Dewey Trautman, the two small men of the squad, are expected to get the call at guard.

Almost certain to see duty and maybe start are Charley Stouffer and Chris Galambos.

To Cite Seniors
The seniors on the squad will be honored at halftime ceremonies, school aides announced.

In the preliminary, East Stroudsburg's junior varsity will go after its 17th win in 18 games. JV game starting time is 7:15 p. m.

Black Streak
Dick Black, the Warriors' diving specialist, also will be out to extend his own personal winning streak in the diving event.

Lock Haven also will be seeking a 500 record. The Bald Eagles are 4-5 on the season.

Off-Track Ups Chances Of Favorite
ARCADIA, Calif., March 7 —The $100,000 added Santa Anita Derby very likely will be raced over an off-track, which enhances the chances of the already favored stretch-running sensation, Silky Sullivan.

Ten 3-year-olds, the best developed in the west for the 1958 campaign of the sophomores, are slated to go postward at a mile and one-eighth, each carrying 118 pounds.

Upward of 60,000 fans are expected, provided the weather isn't too wet. The big attraction is Tom Ross and Phil Klipstein's California chestnut, Silky Sullivan. Main threat is the J. R. Jinks-Athol McBean colt, Old Pueblo, also bred in California.

Speed Horse
But Old Pueblo is a speed horse who likes to take an early lead and stay on top. Mud or a heavy track is not to his liking.

The other candidates are Rex C. Ellsworth's The Shoe, full brother of the great Swaps, and McTavish: Warner Ranch's All-star, the Kerr Stable's Cardale, Mrs. John McMahon's Carrier X, Martin Traub's Furryvan, El See Stable's Harcell and the George Lewis Stable's Martins Rullah.

Post time is set for 5:05 p. m. PST.

Showers yesterday reduced the track to a sloppy condition. Best guess now is that even without further rain the going will be either slow or heavy.

Bowling Clinic

By BILLY SIXTY
Keep Your Wrist One Of It
ONE OF Milwaukee's better young bowlers, Jimmy Rudig, learned a valuable lesson from one of all things—a couple of ugly 8-10 splits.

The 8-10 pops up either because of lack of spin on the ball, a slick alley surface, or an improper strike angle.

In Rudig's case, he blamed his delivery. He felt his hook had "flattened out" to be deflected away from the No. 5 king pin.

So he took the natural step to remedy the hook by turning the wrist in releasing the ball. It was exactly the opposite of what he should have done—and this could be a lesson to anyone with the same trouble he developed.

Wrist Snap
With the quick wrist snap at release, he reduced the follow-through by half and pulled the ball out of the groove to the left, driving it high on the head pin. What he should have done, much more simply, is increase the arm lift at release so that the fingers, coming out of the holes after the thumb had cleared, could apply more spin on the ball.

Rudig uses the grip shown in the sketch—the grip in which the thumb originally is held about in position with the 11 o'clock hand on the dial—and he maintains that grip through-out the swing to ball release.

The grip lends itself most readily to a comfortable, secure hold, and at release, with an easy lift of the arm, imparts enough spin for a short breaking hook that's easy to control and has mixing power.

Should you draw an 8-10 split now and then, forget it. Don't put your wrist into play as Rudig did. As Charley Daw used to say: "You've got to hit the strike pocket to draw an 8-10 split—and there's never much wrong with hitting the pocket."

New Features Available In Soil Bank

MONROE County farmers will do well to examine some of the new features of the Soil Bank's 1958 Conservation Reserve program. D. H. Griffith, chairman, Monroe County Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Committee, declared yesterday.

Griffith said that the sign-up period for Conservation Reserve contracts ends April 15. He emphasized that there is time for local farmers to come into the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Office and talk over various profitable conservation practices for which they may earn payments under this long-range part of the Soil Bank program.

Griffith called attention to some of the changes in the 1958 Conservation Reserve program that may make a more desirable contract than was available last year. For example, beginning in 1958, farmers may enter into 5- to 10-year contracts, at their option, for land devoted to trees or shrub plantings for shelter-belt, windbreak, or wildlife habitat purposes.

Previously, all tree and shrub plantings were under 10-year contracts only. However, the 10-year requirement will remain in effect for tree plantings for forestry purposes.

Another point Griffith brought out was that the Conservation Reserve program is open to all farmers, whether or not they have an acreage allotment for "basic" crops.
